

Refunds and Course Transfers

Live Center for Legal Education Courses

If you are no longer able, or no longer wish, to attend a live Center for Legal Education program, you may request a course transfer or refund by emailing cleonline@sbnm.org. Course transfers are preferred over refunds.

For all Center programs (including live 3rd party courses), requests received at least one business day before a program date may receive a refund, less a 3% processing fee for electronic payments. Requests received during the 30 days following the program date are eligible for transfer to another Center for Legal Education course of equal or lesser value available for registration at the time of the request. Requests received later than 30 days from the program date are not eligible for refund or transfer. Special circumstances may be considered.

IFL Special Note

All attendees who do not attend the live broadcast of IFL programs are automatically enrolled in the self-study version of the given course, which are considered pre-approved self-study courses under Supreme Court Rule 18-204. There is no fee to automatically transfer to the self-study version of a course. Look for email communications from 'newmexico-support@clewebinars.com'. Self-study registrations expire within 30 days, but you may email cleonline@sbnm.org to request one additional 30-day extension.

On-demand courses

If you no longer wish to complete a purchased on-demand course, you may request a transfer to a different on-demand course of equal or lesser value available at the time of the request. Please email cleonline@sbnm.org to request a transfer. Refunds are generally not available. Special circumstances may be considered.