

Dennis Branch

After a long career, spanning over 25 years, working nationwide as a telecommunications engineer and management executive, Dennis left the private sector and joined the Commission of Public Records, located within the State Records Center and Archives in Santa Fe ("CPR"), in 2015.

Dennis has been a State Rules Analyst since 2016, working in the Administrative Law Division of the CPR. He assists and advises over 35 executive agencies, divisions, boards, and commissions in all aspects of rulemaking. Since 2018, he also assumed the position of Editor of the New Mexico Register ("Register"). Dennis is responsible for the construction and production of the bimonthly issue of the Register, containing the official publication of all notices of rulemaking and rules for state government.

Dennis is a single father raising a 17-year old son, dogs, chickens and composting worms.
