This year's Immigration Law Section annual program will focus on issues relating to immigration, for criminal defense attorneys, or "Crimmigration". This program is designed to help non-immigration attorneys better serve clients and the immigrant community, and bring seasoned immigration attorneys up to speed on recent changes in the practice area. Topics will include an update on the current state of immigration enforcement, analyzing convictions, ethical duties post-conviction, and what to do if your client is detained by ICE. The program will conclude with a discussion on ethical obligations to the immigrant community and issues such as confidentiality and legal access.
